

1. The Veterans of Foreign Wars name and insignia, including but not limited to official caps, shirts, jackets, patches, emblems, or any other garments or items identifying affiliation with the VFW, shall not be worn at rallies, protests, demonstrations, court proceedings, or events supporting or opposing individuals or entities involved in alleged criminal activity, legal proceedings or other sensitive public controversies. This expectation also extends to social media activity in which members should refrain from posting photographs, videos, comments, or other content on social media platforms. Any member choosing to attend such events or support these activities must do so strictly in a personal capacity and shall not reference, imply, or otherwise represent the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States in any manner.

Even when attending in a purely personal capacity, the presence of VFW identifiable material can create the public perception that the organization itself is endorsing or opposing a particular cause or position which is strongly discouraged. The VFW is a nonpartisan organization and maintaining that neutrality is essential to preserving our credibility, unity, and standing in the communities we serve. Each of us retains the right to express personal views as private citizens; we simply ask that members do so without the use of VFW-identifying attire or insignia.
